About (from <https://iwantpoetry.com/>)

- With a signature mix of cinematic dream pop, head-spinning soundscapes and ethereal vocals, I WANT POETRY have quickly gone from being an insider tip to a force to be reckoned with within the German electropop scene. Singer/songwriter Tine von Bergen and pianist/composer Till Moritz Moll invite listeners to a dreamy voyage between worlds of sound. Their 2020 debut album "Human Touch" caught the imaginations of fans and press alike: "... and over everything lies the intoxicating trendiness of their own style; a fine elegance that one knows from great pop artists like Tears For Fears or Woodkid," writes the German newspaper Freie Presse. On their new album SOLACE + LIGHT, I WANT POETRY combine existential themes such as farewell and new beginnings, grief and consolation, retrospection and confidence into a total work of art, with which the duo impressively cements its status as one of the most exciting newcomer bands in temporary pop music. It is an eternal interplay of warm nostalgia, a serene elegance and a light-flooded glimmer of hope that runs like a thread through the new songs. SOLACE + LIGHT features collaborations with some of the top producers in the genre, such as Roy Kerr (London Grammar, Aurora) and Michael Vajna (Malky). The album won them first place at the Pop Music Awards Saxony and nominations at the ESA. They have toured several European countries and played at international festivals such as Future Echoes in Sweden and SPIKE Festival in Bulgaria.
